Dear Editor,

We are writing to complain about ads on TV. There are so many ads, especially during our favorite programs. We think they should be stopped for a number of reasons.

First, ads are nuisance. They go on for a long time and there are so many. Sometimes there seems to be more ads than programmes.

Second, ads are bad influence on people. They try to encourage people to buy unhealthy food like soft drink, candy and chips. And they make people want things they do not really need.

Finally, the people who make ads have too much say in what programmes people watch. That is because they want to put all their ads on popular programs that a lot of people watch. Some programmes which are not so popular get stopped because they do not attract enough ads, even though those programmes may be someone's favourite.

For those reasons, we think TV station should stop showing ads. They interrupt programmes. They have bad influences on people, and they are sometimes put a stop to people favourite shows. We are sick of ads, and now we mostly watch other channels.

Sincerely yours,

Arman

16. Why did Arman feel uncomfortable to watch TV programmes?

Walter Elias Disney (December 5, 1901–December 15, 1966) was an American animated film producer and animator. He was also the creator of an American-based theme park called Disneyland, and the founder of the highly profitable corporation, now known as The Walt Disney Company.

Disney was born in Chicago to Elias Disney and Flora Call. He was named after his father and after his father's close friend Walter Parr, the minister at St. Paul Congregational Church. In 1906, his family moved to a farm near Marceline, Missouri. The family sold the farm in 1909 and lived in a rented house until 1910, when they moved to Kansas City. Disney was nine years old.

According to the Kansas City, Missouri, Public School District records, Disney began attending the Benton Grammar School in 1911, and continued his formal education there until he graduated on June 8, 1917. During this time, Disney also enrolled in classes at the Kansas City Art Institute. In the fall of 1917, Disney rejoined his family. He left school at the age sixteen and became a volunteer ambulance driver in World War I, after he changed his birth certificate to show his year of birth as 1900 in order to be able to enlist in the service. The Effects of Acid Soil

Soils with a pH of less than 7.0 are acid. The lower the pH, the more acid the soil. When soil pH falls below 5.5, plant growth is affected. Crop yields decrease, reducing productivity.

Soils provide water and nutrients for plant growth and development. Essential plant nutrients include phosphorus, nitrogen, potassium, and sulfur. Plants require other elements such as molybdenum, in smaller quantities. Some elements e.g. aluminium and manganese, are toxic to plants.

Nutrients become available to plants when they are dissolved in water. Plants are not able to take up phosphorus, nitrate, potassium, and sulfate ions in solution.

The solubility of nutrients changes with pH. In acid soils, (low pH), molybdenum become less soluble and aluminium becomes more soluble. Therefore, plant growth may be affected by either a deficiency of molybdenum or too much aluminium.

Both crop and pasture plants are affected by acid soils. There may be a range of symptoms. Crops and pastures may be poorly established resulting in patchy and uneven growth. Plant leaves may go yellow and die at the tips. The root system of the plant may be stunted. Crop may yield less.

Plants vary in their sensitivity to low pH. Canola and lucerne are very sensitive to acid soils so they do not grow well. Lupins and triticale are tolerant to soils of low pH so they still perform well.

Land can become unproductive if acid soil is left untreated. Incorporating lime into the soil raises the pH. Therefore, liming soil can reverse the effects of acid soil on plants and return a paddock to productivity.

29. What is the advantage of soils with a pH of less than 7.0?
- To reduce productivity of crop.
 - To increase the crop productivity.
 - To make the leaves yellow.
 - To be poorly established.
 - To cause the plant to die
30. What is the main idea of the fifth paragraph?
- Acid soils affect crop and plants.
 - The root system of plant is stunted.
 - Plant leaves turn yellow and die at the tips.
 - Crop and pasture plants are not affected by acid soils.
 - Crops and pastures are established resulting in patchy.

31. "Therefore, plant growth may be affected by either a deficiency of molybdenum or too much aluminium." (Paragraph 4)

The underlined word is closest in meaning to

- A. caused
- B. supported
- C. destroyed
- D. empowered
- E. influenced

There are a lot of discussions as to whether children should be given homework or not.

Some people claim that children do enough work in school already. They also argue that children have hobbies that they want to do after school, such as sports or music. A further point they make is that a lot of homework is pointless and doesn't help the child learn at all.

However, there are also strong arguments against this point of view. Parents and teachers argue that it is important to find out whether children can work on their own without the support from the teacher. They say that the evening is a good time for children to sit down and think about what they have learned in school.

Furthermore they claim that the school day is too short to get anything done that needs doing and it makes sense to send home tasks like independent reading or further writing tasks that don't need teacher's support.

On balance, I think that some homework is a good idea but that it should only given at the weekend when children have more time.

32. By giving the homework to the students, they can ... in the evening.
- A. prepare for the next lesson
 - B. review their lessons
 - C. enjoy their past time
 - D. do their hobbies
 - E. test them selves
33. The third paragraph discusses ... for the students.
- A. the disagreement of giving the homework
 - B. the function of doing the homework
 - C. the importance of the homework
 - D. the weakness of giving the homework
 - E. the benefit of the homework
34. What is the writer's suggestion about homework?
- A. Homework is pointless.
 - B. Homework is badly needed.
 - C. Homework should be given on weekend.
 - D. Student must frequently have homework.
 - E. Student should not be given any homework.

The Yaks

A yak is a wild ox of Asia. It inhabits the cold, dry plateaus of Tibet, often more than 4.870 meters above the sea level.

Adult male yaks grow to an average height of two meters at the shoulder, and weigh about 1000 kg and the females weigh a third of that.

A yak is covered with long and shaggy hair. It has a dense undercoat of soft, close matted hair. Wild yaks can be brown or black, and both males and females have horns. Wild yaks secrete a special sticky substance in their sweat that helps keep their under-hair matted. This substance is also used in traditional Nepalese medicine.

The indigenous tribes of the Tibetan plateaus have domesticated the yaks for many years. They rely heavily on them for transportation and as pack animals because they are very strong and able to manoeuvres along dangerous ice and snow-covered land.

The domesticated yaks are also important to farmers as it is used to plough fields. Its meat and milk are widely consumed. The soft hair is used to make clothes.
