REUTERS

Liverpool, England.

Senegal striker El-Hadji Diouf has signed a five year deal with Liverpool, the English premier league club said on Tuesday.

"We can confirm that Diouf has signed a five-year deal that will keep him at Anfield until June 2007," a club spokesman said.

The former Lens striker, who has cost Liverpool 10 million pounds ($15.75 million), was joined in training on Tuesday by fellow new comer Alou Diarra and Bruno Cheyrou, who have both signed long-term deals at Anfield.

French midfielder Diarra, 21, arrived on a free transfer from Bayern Munich, while 24-year-old Cheyrou joined for four million pounds ($6.30 million) from Lille last week.

Salif Diao, who played alongside Diouf at this year's World Cup, has also signed a five-year contract from Sedan.

But the midfielder, who cost Liverpool some 5 million pounds ($7.88 million), will not arrive in England until December.

Senegal was one of the surprises of the tournament in South Korea and Japan when it beat defending world champion France in the opening game and went on to the quarterfinals.

Last Friday I travelled by train to Surabaya. I sat in a seat beside the aisle and began to read my newspaper. After an hour, I got up from my seat, walked down the aisle and into the WC. I locked the door of the WC. Minutes later I tried to unlock the door. It wouldn't unlock. First of all I was amazed, and then I was annoyed. How was I going to get out of the WC?

I tried pushing the lock. I tried pulling it. I hit it with my shoe. Nothing I did succeed in opening the door. The door remained locked. Finally I started to shout for help. "Help, I'm locked in the WC. Please get me out." In the beginning nobody answered. After fifteen minutes somebody said. "Hello. Who are you?"

Fifteen minutes later an official arrived. There were large crowds of people outside the WC. I could hear the official telling them to stand back.

"Hello, I am a PJKA official. Have you got a train ticket?"

"Yes, I have."

"Let me see your ticket, please. Push it under the door."

I pushed my ticket under the door.

"Your ticket's okay. What are you doing in the WC?"

"Nothing. I'm doing nothing."

"Why don't you come out?"

"I can't open the door."

"What's wrong with you? Why can't you open the door?"

"There is nothing wrong with me. There is something wrong with the lock on the door."

"You'll have to wait there until we get to Surabaya. I will look for an engineer in Surabaya station".

"I don't want to wait here until we get to Surabaya. I want you to break down the door."

"Are you mad? I am an official. I cannot break down the door."

He went away. He took my return ticket with him. I had to stay in the WC until the train arrived in Surabaya. The train was in Surabaya station for one hour and I was still in the WC on the train. The official could not find the engineer, perhaps. I was feeling very hungry. I wanted to go home. I pulled at the lock and the door suddenly opened. I was free. I ran down the aisle to my seat. My luggage was gone. Somebody had stolen my bag.
